

The TICKING Sound

Features and Cues

- ✓ Raise the tongue tip up to the bump behind the top front teeth and push to release a small burst of air.
- ✓ Voice is turned OFF for /t/.

Need More Help?

- ☞ Prolong the “ee” vowel and push up under the student’s chin to help them raise their tongue and briefly stop the airflow to make /t/ (“eat”).

Common Errors

- ✗ Omissions (e.g. “ba-” for “bat”)
- ✗ /k/ or /d/
- ✗ Interdental errors

Classroom Strategies

1. Model correct speech in response to some of the student’s errors. Use emphasis and point to your mouth to highlight the corrected sound (“What time is it?”).
2. Point out the different sounds in print (e.g. “Look, ‘tape’ has your practice sound.”).
3. Create a small list of functional, key words for you and your student to practice together in their classroom routines. Write the words on a cue card or sticky note as a reminder.
  - a. Can you think of any words that you use in your daily lessons that contain /t/?
  - b. Does the student have a classmate whose name contains /t/?
  - c. Are there any weekly vocabulary or spelling words that contain /t/?
4. Offer choices for correct responding to discussion questions (e.g. “Does 4 + 4 equal ‘eigh’ or ‘eight’?”). Place emphasis on the correct sound.
5. Remember to acknowledge the student’s attempts to communicate. Show interest in what they are saying and give them extra time to respond, as needed.
